Let RMDSA Be Your Resource and
Support Network for Down Syndrome
Education and Information

Helping You Help Families

RMDSA works with pediatricians, OB/GYNs, nurses, geneticists, and many others in the medical community to ensure that when a diagnosis is delivered, it is done in a factual non-biased manner.

Our team does not give medical advice but works as your partner and resource in supporting and supplementing the care you already give.

RMDSA gives the medical community accurate, updated, and relevant information in a timely manner. We are available for presentations and trainings for medical staff in the Rocky Mountain region, as well as to provide direct assistance for your patients.

Want to learn more about the programming and support options available to nurses, doctors, and other medical professionals? We're here for you.

Let's Work Together

Delivering a diagnosis of Down syndrome is not something you do regularly. It is something we deal with every day, and we know what your patients need.

We are your partner, here to compliment your care, to be your emotional support, and to help you best serve your patients.

RMSDA can help you deliver the pre- or postnatal diagnosis in a way that is not only informative but that also outlines options and gives hope and perspective. We help you bring peace of mind, understanding, and present realistic expectations to your patients in what can be a very confusing time.

The Answers and Support You Need

After a diagnosis, your patients will naturally have many questions. We are not doctors and will not provide medical advice, but through our resources, we are able to help you provide answers.

- We are a non-directional and immediate resource for medical staff.
- We help medical professionals support parents and expectant parents on an unforeseen journey.
- We have resources and informational materials so that you can then provide your patients the access to information they need.
- All of our materials are available in Spanish.

Our training services for medical professionals are designed to compliment what you already do for your patients. Our materials are short, concise, not emotional or instructional, and take the pressure off of you in terms of providing Down syndrome-specific information.

Our Mission: You are Family with Us

The mission of Rocky Mountain Down Syndrome Association is to assure inclusion and enhance independence of people with Down syndrome. We will achieve this by providing education, resources, and support in partnership with individuals, families, professionals, and the community.
